A gift that saves lives and gives hope around the world

Every day, around the world, we work hard so that no one is left alone in a disaster. We ensure that people have shelter after natural disasters. We help families who have been forced to flee from war and disaster. We make sure that there is clean water, food and medicines for those affected by crisis.

The Red Cross is the world's leading humanitarian network. We are located all over the world and consist of millions of volunteers who have committed to helping other people.
